The programme was organized with an objective to provide target group knowledge, experience, and understanding about the prospective poultry/dairy practices carried out in different places that not only provide livelihood to the people engaged but also offer self-employment opportunities for them who need not wait for government/salaried job and remain unemployed. This programme was of immense value to the student participants who, after their undergraduate courses, can make use of such experience and opt for such profitable dairy/poultry production and become economically self-reliant.
